Honors Assembly Presents Outstanding Students Awards

Fisher, Millen, Weaver Receive Special Individual Recognition

Honors Day activities last Friday included recognition of campus honoraries, presentation of awards and trophies, planting of the senior tree, senior flag ceremony, and awarding of "wings" to naval aviation cadets.

Pres. Frank J. Prout who presided over the assembly announced the formation of a local honorary society for senior women patterned after Mortar Board, national honorary. Ten students were initiated Thursday evening at the charter group of Cap and Gown.

The requirements set up by an Advisory Board consisting of Miss Audrey Kenyon Wilder, dean of women, Miss Grace Wills, Miss Gertrude Eppler, and three Bowling Green members of Mortar Board—Mrs. Floyd Collier, University of Illinois; Mrs. Jesse J. Currier, Ohio Wesleyan University; and Mrs. Pauline Kincaid, University of Wisconsin, are:

1. Distinction in campus leadership
2. A cumulative 3.0 scholarship
3. Participation in activities
4. Character, personality

Charter members of Cap and Gown are: Mary Elizabeth Beattie, Esther Burner, Martha DeWeese, Alice Dinsmore, Arlene Fisher, Martha Jordan, Marietta Kershner, Betty Loveland, Joan Norsworthy, and Mary Percy.

Lt. Robert G. Kales of Detroit, presented wings to 20 naval aviation cadets stationed here. The cadets marched in academic procession with the members of the graduating class and the faculty who wore cap and gown.

Presentations included:

The Siebens trophy, the gift of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur R. Siebens, to the "woman, who during her course of studies has achieved a personality exemplifying most harmoniously the qualities of physical fitness, feminine charm, noble living, scholarship, and enthusiasm for worthy life objectives"—Arlene Fisher, senior from Montpelier.

Cash award of $25 from the Faculty Women's Club to the senior woman outstanding in scholarship and leadership—Mary Millen of Curtice.

Chemical Journal Club award to the outstanding freshman in chemistry—Zola Weaver of Weston.

Clayton C. Kohl memorial scholarship trophy, given by the Five Brother fraternity in memory of the late professor and awarded for the first time to the fraternity with the best scholarship—Beta Gamma Upsilon.

J. J. Urshel trophy to the non-sorority, non-fraternity dormitory with the best scholarship—Williams Hall.

Scholarships and fellowships to other institutions—Jean Bellard of Bellevue, graduate assistant in chemistry at the University of North Carolina; Joe Nordmann of Bowling Green, graduate assistant in chemistry at the University of Southern California at Los Angeles; and Margaret Simpson of Bowling Green, a $250 scholarship to the School of Library Science at Drexel Institute of Technology at Philadelphia.

Cum Laude—Martha DeWeese, Rita Fender, Rowena Joice, Peggy Komminsk, Robert Morgan, Margaret Simpson, Ada Rathfelder Knepper, Elizabeth Welfle.

Magna Cum Laude—Helen Hebblethwaite, Virginia Kurtz, and Mary Millen.

Student Council award for the best assembly program—Seven Sister Sorority.

Names were read of the winners of the Ohio College Newspaper Association contest and speech activities.

The Honors Day committee included Dr. C. Glenn Swanson, Miss Nellie Ogle, and Prof. Warren Steller.

Following the assembly, the seniors went to the library lawn where a small tree had been planted. A metal marker inscribed with "Class of 1943" was placed by it. A sealed bottle containing the last issue of the Bee Gee News and the roster of the senior class was buried there.

Bill Kerruish, recently elected president of the senior class in Place of Joe Fox who is in the service, put up the flag of the class on the pole in front of the Administration Building.

Banquet Is Set For Friday

Invitations are being sent today for the third annual Publications Banquet which will be held Friday evening at the Falcon's Nest. Senior awards, gold keys, will be presented to those seniors who have made outstanding contributions to the success of either of the University publications, the Key or the Bee Gee News. A few awards will be made to some students, not seniors, who have entered the armed forces.

Service awards will be presented to students of rank lower than seniors who have done unusually good work during the year. Names of others who have done exceptional work will be added to the permanent Journalism Honor Roll maintained by the University.

Representatives of the firms with whom the publications do business will be invited to attend the banquet. Members of the Board of Publications and Administrative Officers of the University will also be present.

Committee chairmen for the event are Dave Kroft, program; Jean Harshman, invitations; John Barber, programs; and Patricia Schweitzer, dinner.

Femmes Raise Question Of Future Occupation

Every year about this time (with apologies to Tin Pan Alley) we find ourselves jarred by the fact that our remaining days at Bowling Green are rapidly dwindling down to the "finger-of-one-hand" class. So, this spring like every succeeding spring, we (the feminine population) are asking ourselves the sixty-four dollar question; "What am I going to do next year, come back to school, or quit to grab off a war-plant job?"

Well, there's much to be said for both sides of the fence, so with our eyes glued to the future, we decided to nose about and register campus reaction to whether or not women should continue their education in war-time.

Of course, there are those who have already decided to make their final exit on the grounds that: "With everything, in the world about us undergoing drastic change or at least alteration, why shouldn't we scrap our peace-time plans, college included, and go all-out for a new way of life!"

Sure, you definitely have a point there, a very strong one, but let's take a look at the other side and see how they balance.

Leading off, we find Professor John Schwarz emphatically for the affirmative with: "Sure I think women students should finish their education! They're going to go on living after this war, aren't they, and they'll need their training then more than ever! Through my experience with organizations on this campus, I have seen that women can competently take over men's positions here, and maintain just as high standards, I'm all for them!"

Ione Geisel, prominent Skol junior, "kayo's" the idea of dropping out of school, "especially if you are training for some special profession. Sure the WAACS and WAVES are fine, but after the war is over, there'll be a great need for teachers, and someone has to stay in school to prepare for it. As for girls taking over here on campus, I know we can do it; not without hitches, of course, for we admit the fellas could do a better job, but I know we will keep things running smoothly!"

Diminutive Alpha Xi Delta house-mother, Mrs. Eva Farmer joins the list of "those in favor" with: "I certainly think girls should finish their education while they have a chance, because a degree is something that will be invaluable in years to come. Naturally, if things should happen to turn for the worst in this war, then I would definitely advise (Continued on page 3)

"Flying Falcons" Plan Is Approved

College Life Of Naval Cadets

Little time is left for extra-curricular activities in the busy routine of a naval cadet. Shown above is Flight Instructor Swander pointing out various objects on the instrument panel to one of his students. The other pictures portray the cadets drilling and waiting to be served dinner. They live at Kohl Hall, men's dormitory.

Introducing Lieutenant Robert E. Jones, The Navy's Contribution To Bowling Green

Coeds consider him tall, dark, and handsome.

Cadets rate him a disciplinarian, but with a fatherly interest in them.

Women remark that he is a bachelor—and a very eligible one.

Men like his modesty and manliness.

He's Lt. Robert E. Jones, U. S. Naval Reserve, new officer in charge of naval aviation cadets at Bowling Green State University.

The six-foot officer was commissioned last year and had his indoctrination course at Quonset Point, R. I.

Lt. Jones likes Bowling Green and hopes to remain here indefinitely.

"We have a wonderful set-up—an excellent physical plant, marvelous cooperation with the University and the citizens, very good food," the officer remarked.

Soon after arriving in Bowling Green he attended a Kiwanis Club luncheon and was introduced by E. J. Kreischer, University business manager, as "a former insurance company adjuster."

N. Y. A. Work Application Is Pending

"Opportunities for NYA work will be limited next year, however the University's application for it is pending, and we are waiting for the application to go through," Dr. Homer B. Williams, head of NYA University employment, stated today.

If the application goes through, there will be two classes of workers. One will be as it always has been and the other a man-power class chiefly for men. By this system a student may earn the regular $20 per month and also $20 bonus for research work.

Students interested should see Dr. Williams and leave their applications with him. They will be notified during the summer as to the success of the pending application.

Lt. Jones

in-law of Edgar Wallace, short story and mystery story writer.

After graduation from high school at Jackson, O., where he was born January 2, 1906, Robert Ellsworth Jones attended the Asheville (N. C.) School and Western Reserve University. He won letters in baseball, soccer, and tennis, also played golf, sang in the glee club, and became a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

Automobile traveling is his favorite vacation plan, golf his favorite recreation, and "anything for the best interests of the community" his favorite hobby.

Particularly interested in boys' work, he served at Columbus on a Boy Scout committee. At the Broad Street Presbyterian Church he was trustee, deacon, and usher.

And what does he expect to do during his spare time in Bowling Green?

"I don't expect to have any spare time!"

"The Happy Journey" Highlights One-Acters

Admittedly a substitute for "She Stoops to Conquer," which was abandoned when the male portion of the cast departed for the army, a program of one-act plays was presented last Friday night.

The three shows, two of them comedies and the other a melodrama, were good without reaching the high standards usually set by University plays. Three student directors had an excellent opportunity to experience some of the agonies which are ordinarily the exclusive privilege of Professor Elden T. Smith.

The most finished production of the evening was "The Happy Journey" by Thornton Wilder. The cast had presented it several times before for various clubs. The audience was delighted with the play's true-to-life simplicity. Margaret Lowrie, in the part of the mother, was quite convincing. Ralph Klein, Joanne Jones, Dick Herring, Peggy LeFevre, and David Thompson were other members of an excellent cast. Bruce Siegenthaler directed.

An axe-murder was the climax of the first show, "When the Whirlwind Blows," a particularly good piece of literature when compared with the sterling commonplaces of Thornton Wilder and the sophisticated wit of George Kelly, "When the Whirlwind Blows" was made emotionally effective by the cast, in that the audience was left gasping at the curtain. Bette Root, Georgia Anderson, and Betty Zimmerman were equally skillful in their roles. Jo Lee Echelberger directed.

V-5 Students Plan Future

Petition Granted For B. G. Squadron

Fifteen University Reservists in the Naval V-5 program were assured this week of being trained and sent into service as a single unit. Petition was made recently to the Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board in Detroit for the reservists to be organized into a squadron which will be called the "Flying Falcons".

The petition was presented to the Detroit office by Lt. Robert E. Jones. Instrumental in the movement to organize the squadron were Mark Welker and Dan Jones.

Provision was made by the Navy department when the V-5 program was inaugurated for University students to be trained together, but few schools have taken advantage of the opportunity. The only other similar group in this territory was organized by students at University of Michigan last year.

University students who have signed to become members of the group are Mel Albertson, Richard (Red) Lowry, Don Johnson, Mark Welker, Dan Jones, Lowell Siel-schott, Ed Bayless, Pete Popovich, James (Pepper) Martin, Larry Kiffer, Mike Kiah, Carr Newcomer, Norm Detray, Leonard Hedtky, and George Fitzgerald. Any V-5 reservists who have not yet been contacted are urged to get in touch with Mark Welker or Dan Jones immediately.

Churches Conduct Services

Six Bowling Green churches will have "baccalaureate" services for University seniors during their regular worship period Sunday morning.

After elimination this year of the traditional baccalaureate on the campus, Dr. Frank J. Prout, University president, asked local churches with members in the graduating class to incorporate an appropriate sermon in the service and have seniors in cap and gown.

Sermon topics are:

First Christian Church—"Making a Living and Making a Life" by Rev. Elwynn Peace.

Lutheran Church—"Ambition Which is Christian" by Rev. Walter Charlesworth.

First Methodist Church—"Youth and Today's World" by Rev. Leslie O. Vesey.

First Presbyterian Church—"For Their Sakes" by Rev. Robert D. Bulkley.

Trinity United Brethren Church—"The Church in a Revitalized Democracy" by Dr. Walter A. Zaugg.

First Baptist Church—"God's Challenge To Youth" by Rev. Charles Stricklen.

"The Women" Take Over

It is with a feeling of pride and sorrow that I start pounding the keys where Dave left off. Pride because I feel the responsibility that is being placed upon me, and sorrow because the end of our last real "college" year is well within sight. And yet we know that the best things do come to an end.

New editor hopes for high-grade newspaper

So has ended a successful Bee Gee News "regime." It is a difficult task to edit a paper which the student body approves and at the same time win high journalism ratings. That task has been accomplished this year. With the aid of a cooperative staff, Dave has given us the news in which we are interested, the features we enjoy reading, the columns we like the best. At the same time, he and his staff have received several journalism honors for the University.

Just as everything in this day and age is uncertain, so is the future of the News. This issue is the beginning of an all-girl staff, something which the school has never seen. There is much hard work and different planning ahead of each of us, but we will do everything in our power to keep up the Bee Gee News prestige that those who have gone before us have set.

Thanks for a grand job this year, Dave, and look for a high standard all-girl paper next year.

Patricia Schweitzer, Editor
Bee Gee News

Here's a Recipe For Success

Last Friday morning practically the entire student body went to the convocation program where the current leaders on our campus were recognized. And maybe you heard the person behind you whisper "I wonder what big, important thing he ever did to deserve that?" Or maybe it wasn't the person behind you who whispered—maybe it was you.

Dependable
students receive recognition

Well, when you stop to analyze it, most of those people who shook hands with Dr. Prout didn't do any one big important thing. They're the people who go along every day doing the things that are required of them and usually just a little more. Then when the adding-up time came, these who had been contributing day by day had the biggest grand total. You don't have to be Superman to get recognized—you don't even have to be a genius. Emerson put it pretty plainly when he said "Genius is an infinite capacity for taking pains."

Probably that's the biggest mistake we make when we start out in college. We see some few people holding down big important jobs and thing that we couldn't possibly be capable of filling their shoes, so why try? But it really doesn't take anything but being where you should be almost always, and on time, and having the things done that are expected of you. People don't like to be disappointed; they usually substitute someone else who is dependable the next time.

The people who were recognized last week are those dependable few who've plugged along and finally received recognition. Don't envy them—just try their formula next year—it always works.—JT

Hitler And The Devil

Old Hitler he agreed to help that devil man,
In his plan to scatter evil over all the land,
So the devil helped the army and they started to roll,
In return for which Der Fuehrer said he'd sell his soul.

They conquered most of Europe and some other lands,
And the Nazis thought they had the perfect battle plans,
So they hailed the mighty fuehrer of the "master race",
And prepared to lick the world at a faster pace.

But the Lord way up in Heaven, as He looked below,
Saw the troubles of His people, in a world of woe,
So He quickly looked around to see the reason why,
And He saw the smilin' devil just a standin' by.

Then the Lord, he grabbed the devil and they started in to fight,
With the devil mad and cussin' Him with all of his might,
An the Lord was winnin' easy and the devil knew,
That he'd have to pull a trick or two.

So he tried to trip the Lord and then he started to run,
But the Lord He quickly caught him cause he'd just begun,
And the devil pulled a razor but he slipped and fell
And the Lord He picked him up and threw him back into Hell.

Just as soon as this happened then the Nazi's stopped,
For without the devil's help their mighty army flopped
And the Nazi's started running and Der Fuehrer wept,
And the first and greatest promise that He ever kept,

Was to call upon the devil to prepare a place,
For on Earth it wasn't healthy for his "master race",
And the Lord said to His people from His place above,
"I will always give protection to the people I love."

"The Human Comedy" Starts Sunday

How the German Gestapo seeks the death of an American naval expert as part of the Nazi scheme of world conquest, comprises the basis of "Journey Into Fear," the exciting new melodrama that opens as half the double bill at the Cla-Zel Theatre today. Orson Welles, Dolores Del Rio, and Joseph Cotten are the principal stars. Don't miss this new Welles' triumph! The other half of the double feature, "Young and Willing," tells of the madcap experiences of six young stage aspirants who scheme by hook or crook to have their talents recognized by a certain stage producer. William Holden, Eddie Bracken, Robert Benchley, Susan Hayward and Martha O'Driscoll star in the picture. It's fast and funny as well!

Joe E. Brown and Judy Canova will furnish the laughs in half the double bill Friday and Saturday when they romp across the Cla-Zel screen in their new picture "Chatterbox." The locale of the picture is a dude ranch . . . you are acquainted with Brown and Canova . . . need we say more? "Night Plane From Chungking" is the other half of the double bill. The seething Chinese war front is the scene of this romantic adventure picture. Ellen Drew, Robert Preston and Otto Kruger are the stars.

"The Human Comedy," the picture that we've all been waiting for, opens Sunday for a three day run. It is the story of a typical American family caught in the whirlpool of war, and mirrors the heart and soul of the nation's millions. Mickey Rooney, Frank Morgan, James Craig, Marsha Hunt and Fay Bainter are the principal stars. The picture is based on the story by William Saroyan. It is one of the best pictures of the year!

Training School Presents Musical Outdoors, Today

The annual spring musical by the Training School students will be given on the campus in front of the building today at two o'clock. If weather is unfavorable it will take place in the gymnasium of the Training School. A feature of the program will be the winding of the Maypole.

Feminine Staff Brings Chaos To Once-Calm News Office

Well, it's finally happened; the Bee Gee News' feminine staff has taken over. This event, which will go down in history along with such world-shaking occurrences as the discovery of America, the battle of Valley Forge, and—the Marines landing, (where? oh, just anywhere) will long be remembered by those who are fortunate enough to witness the transference.

So, we will attempt to smuggle you, the lucky public, behind the scenes, that you may view and marvel at the competence and cool co-ordination of the new staff.

The hour is seven P.M., well, maybe closer to seven-thirty, and we find les jeunes filles (for translation corner a student of francais) deeply engrossed in the pursuit of higher journalism. (?) A quiet species of pandemonium reigns, which is broken only by the plunk plunk of the typewriter, (nope, we never bothered with typing 101) an occasional soft-spoken query such as; "How do you spell disestablishmentarianism?" and everyone screaming, "Have you gotta comb?" or "I can't find a butcher-boy linen suit anywhere in Toledo!" Copy, in the intriguing form of income-tax-length strips of paper reposes at random on the floor, making exit or entrance (who wants to come in anyhow?) a matter for much harder constitution than ours.

So, the work progresses on its uninterrupted way, that's if you don't count the fifteen minutes-or-half-hour devoted to noble industry of swigging ye olde "coke" and remarking candidly on who was seen where with which, and so on far into the night. Sensation of the evening comes when the sole male personage remaining in this circle makes his spectacular entrance, and for the moment, (or is it moments?) all thoughts of deadline, etc. fly out the conveniently open window. However, as he finally settles down before his typewriter, work reluctantly resumes, and boredom re-establishes itself.

Somewhere through this maze, the four all-important pages find themselves miraculously completed, and freedom looms as a definite

Moseley Predicts Few Heavy Rains Until Late 1945

After this spring the Ohio River will probably not have very high water again until late in 1945, E. L. Moseley, professor emeritus of biology, predicted today.

Meantime, Ohio and bordering states will receive less than average rain, he contended.

His predictions are based on the study of tree rings, which show that in this area rainfall is usually similar in amount to that which fell in the same locality 90.4 years earlier. This interval is eight times 11.3 years, the average sunspot period.

Professor Moseley asserted two months ago at the annual meeting of the Michigan Academy of Science that he expected, "a grand finale" of rain this spring.

Four years ago he told the Ohio Academy of Science, which recently made him an honorary life member, that there would be heavy rains this spring.

probability. This happy state, however, is squelched pronto by the realization that next Monday night will bring same story, second verse.

Honest though, we actually eat the stuff up, and wouldn't trade it for any job on the campus! So, hello!

Skeleton Council Will Rule Campus During Next Term

Don Cunningham, retiring president of student council, announced today a special emergency arrangement under which Student Council plans to function during the coming summer. Because of the present emergency, plans were made for a skeleton council which will not operate until the regular session begins next fall.

Women's Central Committees have each selected two people as their representatives to Student Council. Mary Holt, Mary Ripley, and have been named to these positions. The remaining representatives to Student Council will be named to the election to be held shortly after the next regular session begins. Council postponed the regular spring election until then.

War Council Will Sponsor Last All-Campus Event

By M. L. WHIT

The War Council is sponsoring an all-campus get-together to be held Saturday night behind the Woman's Gym. Games, such as shuffle-board, badminton, tennis, archery, horse-shoe, girl's soft ball, and soccer will be played from 7:00 until dark. At this time also there will be a base ball game between university men and the Navy Cadets. After dark there will be dancing on the tennis courts if the weather permits. In case of rain, the dance will be held in the gym. There will be a refreshment stand where cokes, ice-cream bars, and potato chips will be sold.

A 10 cent charge will be made at the dance. This money, together with the profits from the refreshments, will be used to buy war stamps and bonds to increase the fund started to aid returning Bowling Green students after the war.

Marie Evans, War Coordinator, named her committees as follows: Audrey Heslop, Marietta Kerschner, Betty Zanglein, and Mary Morris, food; Judy Wild, Arlene Fisher, Carol Bauman, Virginia Dalton, Larry Kieffer, Mel Albertson, and Bab Mahrdt (V-5), games; Mary Percy, Ruth Loudenslagel, Leitha Hootman, Alice Bates, Ben Gaeth, dance.

All those little people who weren't there in your Monday classes were home in bed, celebrating Senior Sneak Day as any Senior, who has been using his brain for four years and is mentally exhausted by this time, would celebrate such an event.

Falcon Trackmen Wind Up Successful Season

By NORM KNISELY

The 1943 track season closed two weeks ago at Ohio Wesleyan. When Bee Gee garnered six first places and tied for another, it was just another bit of evidence as to the type of team that the Falcons had. Hampered by the loss of several of the key reservists to the Army, the task of conquering the strong Wesleyan team was exceedingly difficult. The men who journeyed down to Delaware were far from conquered. What they lacked in man-power, they made up in spirit. Coach Whitaker has done a splendid job of upholding the traditions of our fighting Falcons.

These men, whom we have looked upon this year in the athletic fields and especially on the track, are going to bid this athletic regime adieu. We won't forget "Big" Wayne Bordner stepping over the high and low hurdles, nor will we forget Pete Popovich challenging Wayne at every hurdle.

Then there are Ralph Klein, Red Lowrie and Will Lytle, the three speed merchants of the dashes. Al Schindler held down the javelin throw throughout the year. Johnny Critz and the up and coming Norm Weston did an excellent job in the weights. The task of climbing into the stratosphere with a pole was handled by Bud Yaple, Bob Whitman, and John Phillips. Dean Fogle, Denny Aeschliman, Coe McLaughlin, Don Ohmler, and McKoy rounded out the rest of our fighting Falcons who made the trip to Delaware.

No article would be complete without paying tribute to little Ralph Boroff who spent his abilities running the distances. He may not have won all the miles and two miles that he ran but he was always in there running, making it very uncomfortable for the leaders. He did win his share and with his endurance, he will always win the admiration of his followers.

These boys are now going to join a new and much larger team. When Corporal Hitler and the little man with the glasses observes the fighting Yanks bearing down upon them, you can be assured there will be plenty of our fighting Falcons among them. Good luck, men, from the whole student body.

Aeschliman Drives In Run To Win Fifth Game For B.G.

The Falcon nine notched their fifth victory Friday afternoon with a 10 inning win over Hillsdale by the score of 5-4. Aeschliman drove in the winning run with a double in the extra inning.

The scoring was nil until the last of the fifth when Bee Gee opened up with a rally that netted them four runs.

Babcock opened up the inning with a double and advanced to third on an error by the third baseman while Hanna went to first on a fielder's choice. Kuhlman flied out to centerfield. The fireworks began when Aeschliman doubled driving in two runs. Ed Bayless then doubled, driving in Aeschliman and Seilschott doubled, driving in Bayless. Vaughn, the Hillsdale pitcher, looked as though he was finished at this point in the game but remained in and retired the next two batters.

Hillsdale retaliated by scoring one run in the sixth and three more in the seventh. The scoring remained at four all until the tenth inning when Babcock scored the winning run on Aeschliman's second double of the day.

Although Bee Gee only used nine men all afternoon, three pitchers and two catchers saw action. Mel Albertson relieved Aeschliman in the sixth, who in turn was relieved by Aeschliman in the seventh. Also in that seventh inning Kuhlman came in to pitch and Denny went into left field. Captain "Count Fleet" Seilschott came in to catch in Kuhlman's place. In the last three innings that Hillsdale faced Kuhlman they obtained no hits.
